

Notice from Federal Service Desk regarding suspicious messages:

Be cautious. The U.S. Government does not use social media to directly contact you. No Government staff will call or text you to solicit business. Additionally, no government staff will request money in order to renew or activate your registration. Registering to do business with the Government is FREE.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming, or implying, affiliation with the Government (or which a reasonable person could confuse with an official message from the Government), you can:

- Forward the email to Federal Trade Commission, specifically its Unsolicited Consumer Emails (UCE) program at spam@uce.gov
- Report the contact to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, specifically its Internet Crime Complaint Center (IC3) <https://www.ic3.gov/complaint/default.aspx>
